Congressman Jimmy Panetta: One Year Update

We are honored to have yet another distinguished Guest Speaker for this month’s Lunch & Learn Meeting. Congressman Jimmy Panetta serves California’s 20th Congressional District in the House of Representatives, having been elected for the first time in 2016. Panetta will provide a synopsis of his first year representing California’s Central Coast, which of course includes Monterey County. While bringing us up to date on progress and challenges in the House, Panetta will touch on topics of concern to our League, such as: climate change, redistricting, the budget, healthcare, and other issues. A question and answer session will follow his talk, so here’s your chance to speak to power!

As a member of the Agriculture and the Armed Services Committees, and having grown up in Monterey County, Panetta knows the needs of our area, and what makes the Central Coast a special place. While acknowledging that agriculture is the economic engine of this district, Panetta knows that its only as strong as our community of farmers and farm workers. This District is also home to the Navy Postgraduate School, Army Defense Foreign Language Institute, County Veterans Treatment Court, a future Central Coast Veterans Cemetery, Monterey Bay National Marine Sanctuary, Fort Ord National Monument, Elkhorn Slough National Estuarine Research Reserve, and Monterey Bay Aquarium. Panetta’s concerns and issues are far ranging and deeply interesting. Come early to get a good seat, and bring a friend!

This is my "postcard" to you from across America. I have been traveling for the past few weeks, mainly to attend my 50th High School Class Reunion in Wisconsin.

I'm still on the road, but will be back in time to Chair the October 9 Board Meeting. I look forward to seeing you then and/or at the October 18 Lunch & Learn to host Congressman Jimmy Panetta.

Special thanks to Nancy Selfridge, for chairing the September Board in my absence. I've been told she did a brilliant job in her capacity as Vice President.

Since no action or communication has been taken since the last Board, there is no "Where the Action Is" column for this issue of the Voter.

Service
From 2003-11, Panetta served as a Lieutenant in the United States Navy, Reserve Component. Despite being employed full time as an Oakland Prosecutor, he volunteered for active duty in 2007 and deployed to Afghanistan in support of Operation Enduring Freedom. For his work there as an Intelligence Officer in a Special Operations Task Force Panetta was awarded the Bronze Star for meritorious service.

Veterans
Panetta continues to serve those who serve our nation as a Monterey County Veterans Transition Center Board Member, working to end veterans' homelessness. He helped establish our Veterans Treatment Court and, with local leaders and community members, gained the political will and funding to establish the Central Coast Veterans Cemetery (to be on the former Fort Ord). Panetta was named a Monterey County Veteran of the Year in 2015.

Environment
The Monterey Bay National Marine Sanctuary (MBNMS) is the largest protected ocean area in the continental United States. Anchored around this unique ecosystem are more than 40 world-class universities and marine research institutions working to better understand climate change, ocean acidification, rising sea levels, and more. Panetta values these institutions: even before attending law school, he served aboard a National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration research vessel, and more recently served as an MBNMS Advisory Council Member.

Hospitality & Economy
Tourists from around the world visit the Central Coast to explore our National Parks, Monuments, Reserves, and many other attractions. Panetta knows that this flourishing industry is based not only on exceptional hospitality and recreational, historical, and scenic, educational opportunities, but on maintaining a healthy, sustainable balance between our environment, economic growth, workforce, and residents' needs.

Justice
Prior to his election, Panetta served as Deputy District Attorney, Monterey County, prosecuting violent gang members, pursuing justice for victims, and making communities safer.

Education
Panetta graduated from UC Davis with a BA in International Relations, and received his law degree from UC Santa Clara.

Family
Panetta is married to Monterey County Superior Court Judge, Carrie McIntyre Panetta. They have two daughters, Siri and Gia.

Office of Congressman Jimmy Panetta
Producing The Voter requires much more than the efforts of those who provide the content. Someone has to ride herd on contributors, edit and assemble the articles and photos into an attractive format and get the result to the printer on deadline. Luckily, we have Regina Doyle to perform these functions and make sure The Voter reaches members on time and looking good.

Regina moved to her childhood hometown, Pacific Grove, in 2000 and joined the League a couple of years later. “I already knew a lot about the League,” she says. “I appreciated its neutrality, offering voters such well thought-out arguments for both sides of political issues.”

Before moving back to PG to live near her mother, Regina’s amazing career in health education materials production kept her abroad for many years. “I started out in 1978 with the Peace Corps as the administrator of a health project in Liberia.” she says. “I was supposed to be there to be a manager, but it turned out I could do medical illustrations, so that added to my duties.”

In 1980 Regina transferred to the UN Volunteers. “I ordered machinery and materials and set up a health education materials production unit in the Ministry of Health,” she explains. This allowed them to print locally relevant textbooks, charts and teaching aids for doctors, nurses, midwives, clinic workers and teachers on immunization, sanitation, germ theory, nutrition—“everything and anything to promote health and prevent disease.” She recruited and trained Liberians so that when she left, the work could continue.

Since she’d had no formal education in graphic design, Regina spent a year studying at American University. Then she took a job as a Health Education Officer with UNICEF Uganda for the next six years. “That was the advent of AIDS awareness in Africa,” she says. “UNICEF was heavily involved in the campaign to deal with the disease.”

In Uganda, Regina met and married Brendan, a UNICEF Water Supply and Environmental Engineer from Ireland. By 1989, feeling they both needed master’s degrees, they moved to London, where Regina earned hers at the University of London’s Institute of Education and Brendan got his at the London School of Economics.

In 1991, the Doyles joined UNICEF New York, in global development programs. In 1997, they returned to Africa to support UNICEF’s Regional Programs in Eastern and Southern African Countries. In 2000, using Pacific Grove as a "base," they provided consulting services to various development agencies. Now "retired," they continue to travel the world for pleasure, including visiting Brendan’s family in Ireland once or twice a year.

Retirement for Regina included being elected to the Monterey Peninsula Water Management District Board, representing Pacific Grove, Pebble Beach and part of Carmel. Joining the League gave her more time to devote to another passion, voting rights. “I registered to vote at 18,” she says, “and when I was overseas, I used the US Embassy pouch to send my ballots home.” Now she volunteers at the election polls every year.

She wants the League continue to do everything possible to protect voting rights, particularly against phony claims of voter fraud. “We need to protect free voting in this country, prevent voter rolls from being closed down and promote the rights of people of color and the less well-off who are being disenfranchised,” she says. “It’s not a democracy if a minority of the people make the decisions for the majority.”

When tens of thousands of visitors arrive on the Monterey Peninsula for large special events, do you wonder: where do visitors stay and do the citizens of Monterey County benefit from large special events?

"Hotel Tax" Revenue

Though locals complain about tourists, we benefit from tourism. One of the largest to Monterey County is payment of Transient Occupancy Tax (TOT), sometimes called “hotel tax.” The State, through Revenue and Taxation Code 7280, authorized counties and cities to levy a tax on anyone occupying a room, rooms, or other living space for less than 30 days. There are exemptions for employees of foreign, federal, or California State, or city governments on official business.

Code 7280 grants the power to impose TOT to any California County Board of Supervisors or City Council. The tax is based on the amount charged per night, multiplied by the number of nights. If a hotel decides that during a large special event rooms will be rented at a premium, then the room rate and TOT will soar.

The Taxation Code does not impose a cap on the TOT rate. In general rates vary from 3.5% to 15% with the state average around 10%. Unincorporated parts of Monterey County levy a 10.5% TOT. The hotel tax in incorporated cities in Monterey County vary: Carmel, Pacific Grove, Monterey, Salinas, and King City levy 10%; Seaside, Marina, Sand City, and Soledad levy 12%. By comparison, San Francisco and Los Angeles collect 14%.

How much TOT is collected?

In fiscal year 2015-16, Monterey County collected $22.8 million, Monterey City collected $20.8 million, Carmel collected $5.9 million, Pacific Grove projected $3.8 million, Seaside collected $2.7 million, and Salinas projected $2 million. For each of these jurisdictions, TOT was a large part of their budgets. In general the three largest sources of revenue were property tax, TOT, and sales tax. TOT is dependent on levels of tourism. During economic downturns, TOT collections fall. Since 2012, collections have improved and grown steadily.

Does TOT revenue benefit local residents?

TOT was originally meant to compensate local jurisdictions for increased public service costs incurred when serving tourists, such as: law enforcement, parking, traffic congestion, roads, bridges, sewer and water, public transit, landfill, public safety, emergency response, plus administrative costs to respond to these impacts.

However, for most jurisdictions it is difficult to trace where TOT goes. In general, TOT flows into General Funds. From there the money flows to various services such as fire, police, library, parks and recreation, building and planning, administration, and capital projects.

Exceptions are Monterey County, and the cities of Carmel and Monterey where a special tax was imposed to be used for a specific purpose. In Monterey County, part of its TOT revenue is earmarked: 6% for the Monterey County Convention & Visitors Bureau, 1.98% for the Arts Council, and 0.98% for the Film Commission. These earmarks eventually end in the General Fund.

In 2013, the County added a Road Fund as a beneficiary of the TOT formula. This Fund started at 20% of TOT revenue and is set to increase by 1% each year until it reaches a cap of 25% in June 2018 and remains separate from the General Fund.

In Carmel, the first 6% of TOT revenue goes to community, cultural and recreation activities (e.g., Sunset Center, Forest Theater, parks, public facilities, municipal structures, parking lots). If revenue remains of the first 6%, TOT pays for the acquisition and improvement of parks, recreation land, and other municipal purposes. The rest of TOT (94%) is added to the General Fund for usual and current expenses. In the City of Monterey, 16% of TOT is restricted for the Neighborhood Improvement Program. The remainder goes to the General Fund.

What is TID and where does it go?
Monterey County and its municipalities also collect a Tourism Improvement District (TID) assessment (or Hospitality Improvement District assessment). The difference between a tax and an assessment is: a tax is a charge against an individual or landowner that pays for public services and facilities that provide general benefits; an assessment is an involuntary charge levied on property to pay for public improvements because the landowner receives a specific benefit from these improvements. Assessments are not based on the value of the property, and government cannot divert it for other purposes.

While TOT is based on the cost of a hotel room, the TID is based on the number of nights the room is occupied. Monterey County TID varies from $1 to 2 per night; in Salinas, the TID can vary from $1.50 to $2.50 per night. So if a hotel decides that during a large special event, rooms will be at a premium, then the hotel may impose a length of stay requirement (i.e. three night stay for a one day event), and the amount of TID will soar.

TID goes to the Monterey County Convention & Visitors Bureau (MCCVB) to market the County as a tourism destination, and benefit its lodging businesses. So tourists are paying to increase the number of tourists in the future. In FY 2015-16, MCCVB received $4,094,439 in TID. In addition, they got an additional $2,778,349 from County and municipality General Funds. The largest funders were the County and the City of Monterey.

Are there other tourism levies?
In the City of Monterey, a special assessment is levied to pay for the rehabilitation and upgrade of the Monterey Conference Center. The Center is considered important to attracting large special events as it has the largest meeting facilities on the Monterey Peninsula. The three hotels adjacent to the Center are assessed 4.25% of all rent. In the rest of the City, any full-service hotel providing food and beverages in addition to lodging are assessed 1.6% of all rent. Hotels not in the above categories are assessed 0.80% of all rent.

In the cities of Carmel and Monterey, grant programs support special events. Monterey budgeted $30,000 for FY 2016-17 for local organizations and causes which benefit Monterey residents or for large scale events based in the City.

Carmel has similar grants administered by the Carmel Community Activities & Cultural Commission. Unfortunately this year, requests exceeded the budget. Carmel cut by 30% requests from local organizations (e.g., Carmel High School, Sand Castle Contest, Lions Club Easter breakfast, Art Festival), and asked them to pay the rest of the fees owed to the City. They also cut the Concours on the Avenue request by 95% (saying that other organizations may want to take Concours' place).

Are TOT, TID and other levies sustainable major revenue streams for Monterey County?
There are a number of problems with counting on tourist levies for local government income:

First, tourism levies fluctuate with the economy, so local governments should have strong contingency

YIKES! Did you know that one third of our League haven’t renewed their annual membership yet? It’s not too late to come back to the fold! See pages 6 and 7 for details.

LH
plans for periods of economic downturns.

Second, while local ordinances exempt campsites and time-share estates, short term rentals (STRs) are not exempt. Until Monterey County and some its municipalities enact ordinances regulating short term rentals, local governments are missing out on additional revenue.

Third, in the name of transparency, local government should do more to inform residents the benefits they derive from tourism and special events. Local governments could highlight projects and benefits which levies pay for in order to prevent backlash.

Fourth, the voters have the right to approve tourism levies. Local government may be tempted to say “let’s raise more revenue by raising the TOT.” However in 1996, California voters approved Proposition 218 which required that increasing TOT tax be approved by a majority vote of the public. And any TOT special tax which specifically designated uses for the funds would require a 2/3rds voter approval.
