

LWVHW Weekly Update

Season's greetings, Leaguers and friends! No email update next week, so this is the last one for 2025! What a year it has been. Some very high highs and some very low lows. We are grateful for all our members and supporters and could not do our work without you. As you reflect on what mattered in 2025 and what you'd like to prioritize in 2026, we hope LWVHW is part of your plans! A member recently shared the concept of surviving macro grief by cherishing micro joys. The holidays can be hard to get through in the wake of lost loved ones. Micro joys can take many forms: savoring a holiday memory, sharing a laugh or a good meal, taking a walk in the silence of the snow. Noticing the small things that bring joy is healing. Similarly, the fear, anger, and sadness so many of us feel at the anti-democratic, unjust, and inhumane actions we witness on a near daily basis causes and exacerbates a different grief. The concept of letting the little lights shine bright – embracing the micro joys – can help fortify us in this darkness as well. Our weekly hour standing out in pro-democracy solidarity is definitely a micro joy. Come share it with us – or drive by and cheer us on!
