How to Access The End of Life Option Act: Medical Aid in Dying

Presenters Steph Campbell and Susan Johnston are the Orange County Co-Action Team Leaders for Compassion & Choices and strongly believe that all individuals deserve to be empowered to exercise individual choice regarding personal end of life options.

As experienced community outreach volunteers, they help the public learn how to access the California End of Life Option Act signed into law by Governor Brown in October 2015. The presentation will address how the law is currently utilized in California, eligibility criteria, and use of the website to find information.

Steph Campbell earned her MBA from Cal State Fullerton and worked in software quality assurance. She is a founding member of the Orange County chapter of Americans United for Separation of Church and State. In addition to her work with Americans United she is also on the Board of Women For: Orange County and has been a speaker on propositions for the League. Prior to her work with Americans United she was active with the ACLU in Southern California.

Susan Johnston earned her BA, Masters, and Ed.D degrees from UCLA. She taught at UCLA's campus elementary school and then moved to California State University at Dominguez Hills where she served as Professor of Education for 40 years in the Graduate College of Education. She has been an active volunteer with Compassion and Choices for several years. She is now serving as an Orange County Co-Action Team Leader making community presentations to inform the public about the specific terms of the California End of Life Option Act.
