

Al grew up in New York City but has called Massachusetts home for over 15 years. In addition to being an IT executive for many years, Al has taught high school math in the Philadelphia public school system and has taught college classes at Massasoit Community College, Brandeis University and Benedictine University. Al recently retired after working for 10 years for the Commonwealth of MA. One of those roles served was in the IT department of the Executive Office of Education. Academically, Al has a BS in Computer Science from Lehigh University, an MBA from the University of Baltimore and a doctorate in education from Benedictine University. He was appointed to the Board to replace a vacancy and his term expires June of 2024. He is running to support the mission of the School Committee: setting policies, goals and directives for the district and holding the superintendent responsible for implementing the policies and achieving the goals. More specifically, he is hoping to improve communication and transparency with the town, including updating our strategic plan.
