1:45 – 2:00 Meet & Greet – Refreshments

2:00 – 2:10 Welcome to the “Community Interest” Series

2:10 – 3:30 Stephen Hofstetter: “Climate Impacts in Alachua County”

Stephen Hofstetter is the Director of the Alachua County Environmental Protection Department, a local government agency with programming in Water Resources Management, Natural Resources Protection, Land Conservation, Pollution Prevention, Hazardous Waste Management, Climate Change Initiatives and Petroleum Cleanup.

A native of Florida, Mr. Hofstetter holds a master’s degree in biology from Eastern Kentucky University, a B.S. in Zoology, and a Certificate in Environmental Studies from the University of Wisconsin-Madison.

He will describe the consequences of Climate Change to our county and what we can all do to reduce the potential impacts and/or be more resilient when we experience these changes.

There will be ample time to ask questions and to have a general discussion of the alternative futures we will leave to our grandchildren and their grandchildren.

Next Civics Class- Tuesday, December 12, 2023, 2:00 to 4:00. Plan to join us!

Classes are FREE and open to ALL
